KILLING TIME IN THE SENATE

Action on Important Measures Prevented Under Leadership of Aldrich.

VAIN APPEALS WERE MADE BEVERIDGE THE BUTT OF SENATORIAL SARCASM.

Washington, May 25.—An effort to annihilate time by dilatory tactics without making progress on any legislation except that involved in conference reports was the chief occupation of the senate today under the leadership of Mr. Aldrich. The attempt was so successful that the net result in the way of accomplishment of the day's session was the adoption of the conference report on the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Throughout the day Mr. Beveridge was busy in an effort to get a vote on the bill compensating government employees for injuries received in their line of duty, but after the debate had progressed far enough to develop various objections to the language of the bill, Mr. Hale arose to say he had information from the house that no action could be expected there today on the conference report on the public buildings bill, and that until that measure should be disposed of the deficiency appropriation bill could not be perfected, after which he moved an adjournment.

Fought Motion to Adjourn. Mr. Beveridge resorted to some tactics to keep the senate in session to consider his bill, but Mr. Hale and laughter remarked that "There are some things the senate can do without the senator from Indiana," and insisting upon a vote on his motion. The senate at 4:30 o'clock adjourned.

The senate began "making time" when it convened. The journal was read at length in order to prevent the passage of any measures that might result in further delaying proceedings in the house. During the reading of the journal, Mr. Beveridge made the usual motion that the further reading be "dispensed with." He has been trying for several days to secure consideration of the government employees' liability bill and the bill providing that the date of packing shall be placed on canned meats. Mr. Kean, who had been "on guard," by the Republican leaders, objected on the ground that the clerk at that moment was reading a most important report.

Poked Fun at Beveridge. The reading continued and the senators poked a number of jokes at the Indiana senator, who received them with the utmost good nature. No senator paid the slightest attention to the reading and, noticing this fact, Mr. Beveridge renewed his motion, explaining as he did so "that the senator from New Jersey (Mr. Kean) does not seem to be following the reading."

"The senator from Indiana may speak for himself," responded Mr. Kean, waving a copy of the record in the air. "Objection is made and the reading will continue," ruled Vice President Fairbanks.

At 12 o'clock, after one hour had been consumed in the reading, Mr. Beveridge, for a third time, made his request for a suspension, saying that the reading was being ignored by senators. "The senator from Indiana is mistaken," said Mr. Kean, and the clerk proceeded with the reading.

Newlands Tried His Hand. After another half-hour of monotonous droning by the clerk Mr. Newlands appealed to the senate to "pause" and take up the inland waterways bill. The chair ruled him out of order. The reading was concluded at 12:30 o'clock and the journal approved.

Morning business then occupied additional time. Several conference reports were presented and a messenger from the White House arrived with a number of bills which had been signed by the president. All of these matters commanded attention, much to the annoyance of senators who were urging action on bills which did not meet with the favor of a majority.

When the conference report on the sundry civil bill was brought in Mr. Aldrich insisted that it be read in full and that all amendments be read. "Could not the chairman of the committee explain the changes more quickly?" inquired Mr. Beveridge. "I think not," replied Mr. Allison.

More Time Consumed. After discussion between Messrs. Aldrich and Allison, it was decided not only to read all amendments, but to show in detail the manner in which they affect the bill, which greatly added to the time consumed.

When the reading of the conference report reached the appropriation of $25,000 for a revenue cutter in Narragansett bay, which was not agreed to by the house conference, Mr. Aldrich declared:

"The senate was arriving at a 'condition absolutely intolerable.' 'We are obliged to stop appropriations for the government,' he said, and insisted that the action of the house should not be tolerated."

Mr. Foraker said the present was a good time to do more than protest in words against the action of the house. Submission to such treatment, he said, only invited a repetition of it.

"The house," he declared, "does not seem inclined to adjourn, so that the present is an opportune time for the senate to show a certain spirit of independence."

Mr. Fulton protested against the refusal of the house to agree to a revenue cutter for the Columbia river.

Beveridge Again Protested. After the reading of the amendments referred in the conference report had been proceeded with for some time, Mr. Beveridge entered another protest against the unusual method of procedure and Mr. Allison suggested that there was no purpose in continuing the tedious reading of amendments.

The conference report was agreed to. When the conference report on the sundry civil bill was out of the way Mr. Beveridge found the opportunity for which he had been waiting all day and, securing the floor, at once led to Mr. Dewey, who called up the house bill granting employees of the government compensation for injuries sustained in the course of their employment.

Mr. Aldrich, with apparent surprise, turned to Mr. Beveridge and said he thought Mr. Beveridge proposed calling up the omnibus territorial bill. He then suggested the absence of a quorum.

morning when, pressed on the north side by the weight of debris, the trestling west of the steel bridge of the Texas & Pacific railroad over Trinity river gave way and ten men were thrown into the water in full view of 2,000 spectators. Seven of these men were rescued at great hazard. The names of the three men drowned are unknown. Their bodies have not been recovered at a late hour tonight. The other death occurred about 6 o'clock this morning, when an unknown person was drowned.

Reports that many negroes have been drowned cannot be verified, as the utmost confusion prevails in the vicinity. Sheriff Ledbetter of Dallas county, accompanied by a squadron of deputies, pressed into service Ned and Nellie Maurine and rescued over 200 people who were clinging to the tops of their houses and perched in trees at points in West Dallas and along Eagle Ford road.

SIX DEAD IN OKLAHOMA. Hundreds Homeless and the Damage Cannot Be Estimated.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 25.—Six persons are dead, from four to five hundred are homeless, thousands of acres of lowlands are inundated, hundreds of houses are washed away or damaged, railroad wagon bridges are gone over a large area of the southern part of the state, several railroad bridges are damaged and the tracks of nearly every railroad company operating in the state are either washed away entirely or disarranged in those sections visited by the heaviest of rains and most disastrous of floods.

The Dead. William Lindley, Anawado. Tompkins Cheek, Shawnee. W. B. Halliers, wife and child, Fredrick.

Unknown man, dissected body found floating in Cimarron river near Guthrie. Near Davenport both the Frisco and Katy tracks were washed out. Near El Reno eight hundred feet of the Cheate track is gone. On the Santa Fe near Guthrie the tracks were damaged, but have been repaired. The Rock Island lines near Apache and near Fort Cobb have been damaged in the dislocating of bridge vents. The tracks of the Wichita Falls & Northwestern in the Big Pasture are unsafe and trains are delayed. The Oklahoma Central has practically abandoned its service.

Along the valleys of the North and South Canadian rivers, the Cimarron, the Arkansas, the Red river and Red rivers thousands of acres of growing crops have been damaged and many homes washed away.

The rains have been the most severe and the waters the highest in recent years. Some of the oldest settlers aver they have never before seen anything to equal it in Oklahoma.

ROAMING OVER THE WARSHIPS

Seattle Citizens and Visitors View the Vessels in Close Quarters.

Seattle, May 25.—The harbor of Seattle today presented a beautiful marine picture to the large crowd of people assembled from the northwest states. Eleven war vessels lay in stately majesty in a wide crescent, extending from Smith's Cove to the south end of the harbor, with every detail outlined by the sunshine which followed the dreary rain of yesterday. A fleet of excursion launches plied from the shore with full cargoes of holiday attired visitors eager to inspect a modern battleship.

Naturally the flagship, which was lying at the head of the line, was the chief object of interest, and a view of Rear Admiral Sperry and his quarters was eagerly sought. This privilege was accorded only to personal friends and official visitors, however.

For the remaining vessels, no partiality was shown and each one received its full quota of curious eyes.

Busy Time for Admiral. Admiral Sperry was a very busy man, constantly going from his desk to his reception room. Owing to the press of official business he was unable to attend the barbecue and athletic sports for the sailors.

Early in the day the Ohio was detached from the fleet and she sailed to the navy yard at Bremerton, where she will take stores aboard preparatory to her return to San Francisco to be docked. At Woodland park the sailors were entertained with a barbecue and athletic sports. The wives and daughters of the officers of the fleet were the guests of honor at the Balmain club at a reception given by the society women of the city.

Thirty thousand school children visited and overran the warships without a single mishap.

Banquet to Senior Officers. The swellest function attending the visit of the battleships took place tonight at the Rainier club. Rear Admiral Sperry and his senior officers were entertained with the most elaborate banquets ever given in Seattle. From a spectacular point of view tomorrow will be another big day in the fleet's sojourn. Six thousand men will be landed from the ships and, attended by artillery from Fort Lawton, will march through the principal streets of the city.

DISTURBED THE CONGREGATION. The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by continually coughing is requested to buy a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. F. J. Hill Drug Co., "The Never Substitutes."

CONVICTION AFFIRMED. St. Paul, May 25.—The United States circuit court of appeals today affirmed the conviction and the fines imposed on the Omaha railroad and its general freight agent, H. H. Pearce, in the grain rebate cases, tried last year in Minneapolis. The government's contentions in the lower court are sustained in every particular. The railroad was fined $20,000 and Mr. Pearce $2,000.

RETURN TO BARBARISM. Potomac, Pa., May 25.—In order to teach the foreign population of the coal regions a lesson, Sheriff Clay Evans has decided to make the execution tomorrow of Felix Radium public, so far as the representatives of the Poles, Hungarians, Slavs, Lithuanians, Russians and Italians are concerned. Tickets of admission have been given to these men to see Radium die.

Landseekers Crowding the Town—Eighty Thousand Acres Open to Entry June 1.

(Special to The Herald.) Twin Falls, Ida., May 25.—The Twin Falls-Salmon River Land & Water company opened registration books this morning for filings upon 80,000 acres of the Salmon river segregation, which will be opened for entry June 1. When the clerks concluded their day's work, there were more than 200 names on the books, calling for approximately 40,000 acres. Each applicant is given a number and the numbers will be drawn on the day of the opening, the first one drawn having the first choice of land. It is expected that the number of applications will exceed 500 by the time the books are closed on May 31. The incoming trains are crowded with land seekers. Several temporary lodging houses have been erected during the past few days, and the Oregon Short Line is sending Pullman cars to Twin Falls to accommodate the crowd. There are two crowded Pullmans in the yards already. Dining cars will be provided and there will be no danger of any one going hungry or sleepless. A party of eighty land seekers arrived from Chicago on Saturday and went over to the north side to the noon hour today. They had filed upon 3,000 acres at Jerome.

At the banks this morning the line-up extended out to the streets. The hotels are crowded and the city is in animation. Livestock and automobiles are scurrying in all directions and the real estate dealers have their hands full.

ESTATE IS TIED UP. Difficult Matter for Evelyn to Lay Hands on Anything.

Pittsburg, May 25.—Concerning the report that Mrs. Harry K. Thaw will abandon the proceedings to annul her marriage, and attempt, instead, to be appointed a trustee or committee of her husband's estate, Frank Semple, agent and attorney in fact for the Thaw estate, said today:

"It will take a very fine rake for any committee which may be appointed for Harry K. Thaw to find any estate in which he has an interest not provided for by the terms of his father's will."

"I can hardly imagine that the court would appoint Mrs. Harry K. Thaw trustee of her husband's estate, and I continued Mr. Semple, 'but if she or any one else is appointed they will find that the executors and trustees under the will of William Thaw have absolute control of all his interest in his father's estate.'"

"Personally I know nothing about his personal affairs except that the will makes explicit just how the interest of Harry K. Thaw shall be held and distributed. Certainly no order of court appointing a committee or trustees of his estate in the event he is finally declared insane could avoid or change the terms of the will of his father. That will stand no matter what order any court might make."

Presbyterian Assembly Ready to Join Hands With All the Branches.

Kansas City, May 25.—Co-operation and closer relations, leading ultimately to union with other churches of the Presbyterian faith; the duty of the church to the negro, and religious education, were the important subjects considered by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America today.

Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts of Philadelphia, in reading the report of the committee on church co-operation and union, submitted resolutions, which were adopted, recommending the heartiest response to any movement inviting union with the Reformed Church in America, the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the United Presbyterian and other churches of the faith. The assembly was told by the report of the fraternal relations which already exist between its church and every other Presbyterian church and the resolutions of the committee called for action which will insure closer relations. A message of fraternal greeting was sent to the general synod of the Reformed Church in the United States, in session now at York, Pa., "inviting action with a view to further consideration of the subject of closer relations between the two denominations, in harmony with the resolution adopted in 189 by the joint committee representing both churches."

The assembly adopted a resolution approving of the plan of the federal council of the churches of Christ in America, which is composed of twenty-seven of the leading Protestant and evangelical churches in the country, with the hope that "the first meeting of the federal council will result in the adoption of plans of co-operation which will manifest more clearly the unity in Jesus Christ of the churches and advance in a noteworthy manner the interests of the kingdom of Christ in the United States and throughout the world."

The work of the council of the Reformed Churches in the United States in advancing the cause of church co-operation was approved by the general assembly.
